produce a large number of paintings to hang in the windows and doorways of the vacant spaces. The Whitney Avenue Neighborhood Group contributed greatly to the project, landscaping the ten overgrown yards with donated supplies from Soergel Orchards and Garden Dreams Urban Farm and Nursery.

The hard work will be displayed at the free opening party party from four to nine p.m. on July 31st, where a special projection art performance by CMU student Zena Ruiz will be take place. Guests can bring t-shirts to get screen printed with the WAAG logo. Food and beverages will be available, and information will be available about the new Landmark Housing Resources Center opening a block away from the project site.
